

“An Epistemology of Oppression: How Science Created Social Hierarchies”

Keynote talk: Emilia Roig

The Keynote will unpack issues related to intersectionality and oppression, including diversity, equity, inclusion, discrimination and implicit bias in science. Using concrete examples, the keynote will bring clarity on these topics and invite the participants to widen and deepen their perspective, perceptions and beliefs on social injustice, allowing them to reflect on the positive role they can play towards a society free of systemic oppression.

About Dr. Emilia Roig: (she/they) is the Founder and Executive Director of the Berlin-based Center for Intersectional Justice (CIJ), a non-profit organisation dedicated to advancing justice, equality and a life free of systemic oppression for all. Emilia is dedicated to inspire people to divest from oppressive systems through creating new narratives and shifting collective consciousness. She is the author of the bestselling book WHY WE MATTER. The End of Oppression. She was voted "Most Influential Woman of the Year" for the Impact of Diversity Award 2022. <https://www.emiliaroig.com/>
